At Newport the netters are reported in the harbor, as the weather is too rought for fishing. Yesterday none of the netters went out and all the fish reported there today is 1000, landed by two vessels. To these fishermen every day counts, as the season is getting short. Not more than two erel. weeks more remain for those who intend to go swordfishing.

Cape Shore Seiners Held in Port by Bad Weather

From the Cape Shore today comes the news that rough weather provails there, and the American seiners are m various harbors along that coast. This condition has existed most of the time during the last 10 days, which has been a great drawback to the seining operations.

The time down there is also getting short, for it is a well-known fact that the run of large spring mackerel do not remain long in those waters. This has been the case since the remembrance of the oldest inhabitant and the present situation has not changed. Those who have had practical experience in spring and early summer mackerel fishing along the Nova Scotia coast, know that the fish first make their appearance at Yarmouth, in the Bay of Fundy, gradually continue their migrating course down the shore, only halting a day or two at various places until the reach Scatterie, when they appear to be lost to the seiners. As pear to be lost to the seiners.

Loading Fish for This Port.

Sch. J. S. Glover of Portland, which is loading salt fish at Port Clyde, Me., for this port, has made some quick passages in the past two weeks. The schooner left Portland a little over two weeks ago for Round Pond, then to Port Clyde where she went on the railway for overhauling and painting. She then loaded salt fish for Gloucester, went to the Bay State port, discharged and is now back at Port Clyde. the time she left that place until she returned she was gone half a day less than a week, and this included the time she took in discharging her cargo.

FISH RECEIPTS CONTINUE LIGHT.

Aggregate For Week Shows Respectable Proportions.

Fish receipts at this port today continue of a limited order, the principal arrival being sch. Onato from an eastern shacking trip, with 220,000 pounds of salt and fresh cod, and 1000 pounds of halibut, one trip from Georges of 45,000 pounds of cod and one of hake of 45,000, which together with 20,000 pounds of pollock, constitute all that

However, the aggregate for the week, owing to a few large trips, which arrived earlier, make a respectable showing.

The shore fleet is still meeting with poor success, as seen by the few fish they are landing here. The rough weather of the last few days has retarded progress of the pollock seiners, who have been unable to prosecute this industry to any advantage.

In consequence of prevailing condithe market on all kinds of fish is active and prices well sustained.

PORGIE CRAFT SEINED MACKEREL

TWO FARES SECURED TEN MILES SOUTH of BRENTON'S REEF YESTERDAY.

FISH ARE REPORTED SCHOOLING FROM SHINNECOCK to BLOCK ISLAND.

There is no material change to note in the mackerel situation. The catch to date is about the smallest on record. The entire seining fleet are now at Cape Shore and the bad weather the past week has retarded progress of the netters which are in the vicinity of Block Island, while dense fog and strong winds have prevented the seiners on the Cape Shore from taking any fish, although mackerel in small quantities from Yarmouth to Louisburg are reported being taken.

The spring mackerel fishing season is fast drawing to a close and one more week will give a good idea what the result will be.

result will be.

The fares of the porgle steamers George Hudson and Annie Wilcox, which arrived at Newport today were taken 10 miles south from Brenton's Reef. Both captains report many schools from Shinecock to Block Island and that the prospects are good for solvers.

This news is as was expected, for a good school of fish may be expected during the month of June in that section which will extend to the South Channel. It was hoped and expected that the vessels at Cape Shore would ere this, secure fares down there, in order that they would be home in time for the spurt off Block Island and No Morks Land Man's Land.

The fleet has landed 2469 barrels mackerel during the week and 90 barrels have come to hand from Nova Scotia. The total fresh mackerel landed by the fleet to date have been 10,532 barrels, against 14,489 barrels last year, 7469 barrels in 1908, 19,989 barrels in 1907, 15,289 barrels in 1906 and 20,098 barrels in 1905.

The imports of salt mackerel for the week have been 200 barrels, all from Ireland. For the season to date the total importations of salt mackerel have been 33,851 barrels, against 43,887 barrels last year.

Late reports from Ireland indicate a good catch, the fish running about 350 to the barrel. The total shipments of Irish salt mackerel from Liverpool for the season to date have been 36,125 barrels autumn caught and 243 barrels new spring. The jobbing trade is still quiet, though the new spring Irish mackerel are attracting some attention and are being offered by the jobbers at $15@$15.50 barrel.

Seiners Now at Prospect, N. S.

A Prospect, N. S., despatch to the Hallfax Chronicle says that bad weather for the past few days is responsible for the small catches of all kinds of fish made in that vicinity of late. The mackerel catch has so far this season proved a failure. The largest catches were between 200 and 300, and the fish were all large.

Several Boston and Gloucester seiners anchored there last Tuesday for shelter. They report taking 40 barrels. Capt. Hall is said to be the lucky man to get them. In all, five vessels got some. The Monica K. Thomas of Herring Cove is said to have got 60 barrels. The vessels in there were: Constitution, Diana, Dauntless, Electric Flash, Effie M. Prior, Lena Maud, Victor, Shenandoah, Saiadin, Oriole, Rex, Veda M. Mc-Kown, Patrician, Fannie Prescott, Marguerite Haskins, Mooanam, Eveline Thompson, Premier and Judique. First of Shacking Fleet to Arrive From St. Peter's Bank.

Reports Trawlers Doing Well But / Handliners Poorly on Quero.

Sch. Onato, Capt. Henry Larkin, another of the eastern shacking fleet, arived today with a large fare of fresh and salt cod fish, consisting of 75,000 pounds of salt cod and 145,000 pounds of fresh cod. The schooner is from St. Peter's Bank, and is the first arrival of the cod and shack fishermen to come from that locality this spring.

Capt. Larkin said nothing of special interest had occurred since leaving home five weeks ago. "We waited," he said, "at the Magdalenes, where herring were plentiful and cheap. Our first baiting we used on Quero Bank, where we secured 75,000 pounds of sait fish. On the second laiting we changed the ground and went to St. Peter's Bank, and there found fish plentiful and secured the halance of our trip, 145,000 pounds of large, fresh cod. We found better and larger fish on St. Peter's than we did on Quero. Then there were no vessels at St. Peter's, while Quero Bank we covered with all kinds of craft, from one end to the other."

"Since leaving the gulf, the weather has been bad, but up Cabot strait it was fine and warm. On St. Peter's fish for the last 10 days."

Capt. Larkin said he saw no vessels on St. Peter's Bank, except one French steam beam trawler, which reported taking 2000 quintals of fish in 10 days. A week ago he saw sch. William E. Morrissey, which had just come on St. Peter's Bank from Quero, and Capt. Forbes reported having taken only 60 tubs of fish, and the dory handliners had done pathing.

There are only four French beam

There are only four French beam trawlers on the bank yet, but Capt. Larkin understood from them that 20 sail more would soon be out.

Trawlers Doing Better Than Dory Handliners.

When asked the prospect for the dory handliners to secure trips and get home early, he said that the dory handliners are fishing with salt clam bait, which was useless when a fleet of trawlers are around with fresh herring, as the American and Nova Scotia vessels were, and while the

ONE FISH ARRIVAL AT T WHARF

But Large Number of Vessels Expected For Monday.

As predicted, there is but one arrival at Boston today, so receipts are but a few thousand pounds of mixed fish. This, however, was expected, as the shore fleet have had no weather to fish, and those operating on the more distant grounds would not come in the last of the week, which is always a dull market day.

Monday doubtless will see a change for the better, as a large number of vessels will arrive in the meantime.

Prices today are firm, as they have been all the week. With a clean market on Monday, firm prices will doubtless prevail for some time to come. Indeed the number of vessels tending the market is not large, so that no trawlers were getting good fishing, with new fresh herring, the handliners could not get a fish. He had taken 40 tubs at one set of the trawls, while a handliner but a short distance away did not get one tub for 18 dories.

The conditions will change when the squid comes on the bank, and they will have an equal chance, but this is a matter of conjecture, for squid are not a permanent fixture, as the captain had been on all the banks several seasons, and never saw a squid, but it is hoped this will not be the case this year.

Weather Foggy and Blowy on Homeward Trip.

Capt. Larkin said he left St. Peter's Bank last Monday and it was blowing a strong breeze from southeast, so heavy that all the sail he could carry was foresail, jib and topsail, until off Halifax, when a reefed mainsail was set. A dense fog prevailed all the time, making it impossible for the seiners on the Nova Scotia coast to do anything. During the passage he never saw any sign of mackerel coming up the Cape Shore, but it was thick all the time, and yesterday was the only fine day he had seen in two weeks. It seemed to him that mackerel seiners on the Cape Shore must have a pretty hard time and in fact it was impossible for them to do anything.

Capt. Larkin had the honor of bringing in the largest fare of shack fish at this port last year until Capt. Thomas of sch. Thomas L. Gorton has just taken it away in the trip just completed.

NEWS FROM THE BANKERS.

Reports of Poor Fishing by Handliners Confirmed.

Capt. Malone of sch. Lillian, which arrived this morning from a shacking trip, brings the same story from the dory handline fleet as those who preceded him. The weather he says was very bad, all the time they were on Bank Quero. He saw a large number of the handliners and sch. John J. Flaherty was the only one he reports with any fish and she had taken 100,000 pounds. Sch. Tattler when he last saw her had but 30 tubs.
